A Plain Talk.

We said in our last issue that the hot competition for the Democratic nomination for the office of Governor of Virginia was a good sign, in that it presaged a Democratic victory next nated if the prospect of election werenot good? Who would wish to canvass the Commonwealth at a heavy cost to himself in time, money, and mental and physical work of the most exhausting kind, if he did not feel modestly confident that his efforts would be crowned with success " But that is not the whole story.

There are ambitious men in the Democratic party who fancy that they have claims upon the party. For our part we repudiate all such claims. We do not concede that any man, whatever may have been his services to the Demcratic party, has any such claim upon that party as would justify him in demanding at their hands a nomination for high office. If such men rendered whatever services they have renderto the party because they honestly believed that they were doing their duty, and patriotically endeavoring to premote the welfare and prosperity of the Commonwealth, they surely cannot have the face to demand to be rewarded for anything they have done. On the other hand, if such men have heretofore acted with the Democratic party and labored for its success only because they hoped to be sewarded for so doing, then nobody will pretend to say that they ought to be put up for any office whatever.

Cast your eyes all over the State, and look at the thousands and thousands of Democrats, good men and true, who have for years labored faithfully in season and out of season in endeavoring to cause Victory to perch upon the Democratic standards: Are they to be overslaughed that persistent self-seek- have at these courts. If these magwe must give an affirmative one; for these true men are accustomed to that sort of treatment. They do not expect any other kind, and would be surprised if they received any other kind. For example, take this stood up for his rights and the rights city, which in the last ten or twelve of the country. Mr. KEILEY is surely years has never failed at any election to roll up a good Democratic majority, the two men are very much alike in and last fall gave CLEVELAND nearly one third of all his majority in the State : does anybody anywhere in Virginia expect a Richmond man to be elected Governor, or Lieutenant-Governor, or Attorney-General, or United States Senator? No indeed. And yet there are no better or abler men in the State than are to be found in Richmond, nor men more entitled to the honors of the Democratic party.

We do not mention the good Democrats of this city because there are any discontented ones amongst them, nor because even one man amongst them expects to be a candidate for any one of the high offices we have mentioned. On the contrary, we hear of no such desire on the part of any of our fellowcitizens of the capital. It is for this reason-it is because such true, trusty, tried, able, capable, and faithful Democrats do not pretend to have any claims to office—that we refer to their case as proving positively and fully that any aspirants shall press their upon the public, and rehearse their services to the Democratic party, and bemoan the undeserved neglect which has been their portion, then those aspirants are mere place-seekers and time-servers. In every section of the Commonwealth cents for a single sheet sent from one ere are numbers of just such men as we have described as living here in mond, and those men have for years and years given their time and alents to the Democratic party without estation of any other reward than such as would naturally follow to all good citizens from the triumph of Democratic principles. The fact is that the nen who have heretofore received onors are more apt to consider themselves slighted than the men who have never received any. As we have said. there are thousands of such good men and true in every part of Virginia, and to their example we point all grum-blers and prospective bolters and sore-heads and ambitious nobodies.

The Democrats in the House of Repreentatives voted in favor of silver coin age after Mr. CLEVELAND's letter on he cubject had been published.

In a word, the Democrats as a party are bimetallists, the Republicans as a party are monometallists. They Ought to Go. The Cleveland (Ohio) Plain-Dealer, bile expressing great respect for civilservice reform, says : "Especially in Ohio everything Re-publican ought to go. For here the Re-publican party has gone out of the way to abuse the Administration and has advertised its utter worthlessness by indertaking to make a campaign on the sectional issues of twenty years ago.

A political party guilty of such unpardonable folly has no business holding any offices under a Democratic Admin-

Correct. The adoption of the Ohio Republican platform was a pretty broad invitation to the Administration to kick out the last Ohio Republican officeholder. In fact, it would be entirely in line with genuine civil-service reform to get rid of the whole lot. To keep in office representatives of a party that is so many years behind the times, opposed to all idea of progress. The Ohio Republicans should be made to pass under the Administration guilletine for their stupidity, if for nothing else. They should be relegated to the realm of the dead issues they have sought to revive, and a monume in the shape of a huge brass cap and bell should be erected to commemorate their folly.

A CORRECTION .- One Dr. SWIFT. of Northsville, Mich., recently reported that a prominent South Carolinian, who had served on General LEE's staff, had said to him that General LEE once snoke to the South Carolinian of General GRANT as follows :

"We all thought Richmond, protected as it was by our splendid fortifica-tions and defended by our army of veterans, could not be taken. Yet Grant turned his face to our capital, and never turned it away until we had surrendered."

We did not reproduce this report, because we did not believe that General LEE had ever made any such remark, and we were not surprised when we read in the Charleston News and Courier the following :

"The only South Carolinian who was on General Lee's staff is Colonel E. Young, of Charleston, S. C., who was Judge Advocate-General of the Army of Northern Virginia. We have Colonel Young's authority for the statement that he has never, to his knowledge, talked with or seen Dr. Swift; that he never said to any one what Dr. Swift attributes to him; that never heard General Lee express any such opinion of General Grant, and that he does not believe that General Lee ever said anything of the sort."

As to Mr. KEILEY'S case, Colone TOM. WHITEHEAD says in his paper

"We agree with the Dispatch, Take it England and France, and it is doubtful whether any man prominent in our politics will be really acceptable to European courts. Now is a fine op-portunity for the next Congress to economize. Many of our consuls can fully discharge all the affairs we may ers may be rewarded with honors? nates are so particular as to who shall a negative answer; but represent our Government, then we can afford to do without a minister at their courts."

. The South should take up the cudgels for Mr. KEILEY. If he had been a northerner, all the New York and other northern papers would have the equal of SUNSET Cox. Indeed their tastes, their acquirements, their ready wit, &c. But SUNSET Cox goes to Turkey amidst the plaudits of all his countrymen, whilst KEILEY receives more kicks and cuffs than coppers. The latter is, in a word, a southron. He was unknown to the same journals to which Mr. CLEVELAND was unknown a year ago, and Mr. WAITE at the time he was appointed Chief Justice of the United States. But WAITE and CLEVELAND are northern men, whilst KEILEY is a southron. The last-named is never to be forgiven for that he was not a member of the mutual admiration society of the North. But surely all true southerners will stand by KEILEY. Let him come home, and let the Austrian Minister to this country be sent back to Europe.

Within the memory of men now live ing it cost 121 cents to send a single sheet of paper by mail from Hartford to New York. It cost 25 cents to send the same from New York to New Orleans, and twice that amount if two sheets composed the letter .- Manchester (N. H.) Union.

Yes; it cost 25 cents to send a letter from Hartford to New York in those States-rights days. The rates were 25 State to another; 121 cents on a single sheet sent from one county to another; and 61 cents on a single sheet sent to a post-office within the same county as the office from which it was sent. No matter how many sheets were sent, upon each one were charged the rates named.

Professor JOHN M. BIRCH, of Wheeling, W. Va., was presented with a cane the other day by his colored admirers in that city. What says Mr. HALSTEAD? These negroes ought to be turned out of the Republican party. But mayhap they are Democrats!

The new Artesian well (that is expected to be) in Atlanta, Ga., is now more than a quarter of a mile deep, and they are still at work upon it. Will the Constitution tell us how much that well is to cost per foot?

By the new system of postage on and after to-morrow an ounce instead of a half ounce is made the standard -now the silver law. It also weight for letters, and letters of the increased weight will be carried at the present " single rate "-two cents.

The new law will benefit editors and publishers and their correspondents,

In the absence of Mr. COWARDIN at Old Point, we transfer to our columns the following paragraph from the State, whose editor is always doing something that proves how noble a specimen of man he is himself. The State says :

"It was a handsome and proper tribute that Georgeto'm University paid one of her youngest, yet one of her most distinguished sons when she conferred the degree of Master of Arts on Charles O'B. Cowardin, of this city. In Richmond and throughout Virgin where Mr. Cowardin is so well know where Mr. Cowardin is so well known, not only in person, but through the public-spirited journal of which he is one of the editors, this honor will be looked upon as one in which his many friends feel that they have a share, and upon which they offer him their warm congratulations. He will wear it well and worthilly as one of the justly. and worthily as one of the justly-favored sons of his Alma Mater."

We return thanks to our neighbor on behalf of the Dispatch, its editors, proprietors, and all.

WILLIAM H. WILLIAMS, of the Broo'lyn (N. Y.) Young Republican Club, said the other day to an interviewer for the New York Tribune :

"I still think the North was right and the South wrong. I have a much warmer feeling for those who fought to uphold the flag than for those who fought to degrade it." If a Confederate soldier were to say as much for the southern cause, Mr. WILLIAMS would no doubt wave the bloody shirt at a killing rate. What sort of country must ours seem to be to foreigners who read the distribes of the northern haters of "rebels" whose "rebellion" ended so long ago that many young voters cannot recollect aught of the war, and know nothing of it except as learned from others?

The Bangor (Me.) Whig says : "In 1862, during the war of the rebellion, Mr. CHARLES H. HOOPER, of Castine, sent a letter home which his wife never received until last Friday. A good many of them have been ren dered homeless since November, and a good many more will be on the tramp before the summer is over.

SCARED BY A MAD-DOG. Lively Time in a Rescaurant and a Brave

Policeman. A Philadelphia telegram says: A lit tle fox dog, foaming at the mouth and with his tongue hanging out, ran into a restaurant on Sixth street below Race to-day during the dinner hour. The people at the tables first heard a cry of "Mad-dog!" from the street, and then felt the animal dashing about their feet. Without waiting to drop their knives and forks the diners sprang upon the chairs, and from the chairs some of them ascended to the tables. Three girls stood among the dishes, holding up their skirts and screaming, and a rheumatic old gentleman, with a buttered roll in one hand and a knife in the other, made frantic and a knife in the other, made france efforts to climb up the wall. The pro-prietor of the place seized a broom and drove the dog into the kitchen, which caused a terrible racket among the pots and pans, and nearly sent the cook into hysterics. The dog was finally dislodged and driven out. It made a snap for the proprietor's feet, and he kicked at it.

"What are you kicking that dog for?" demanded two men who were passing. The strangers got a glimpse of the brute's red tongue and flaming eyes, and they ran up the street without waiting for an answer.

A policeman by this time had arrived on the scene. "Pick it up and hold it under the hydrant," the officer ordered from a safe distance. Nobody picked the dog up. A man rushed out of a neighboring house and hit it on the head with a bucket. The dog was badly disabled by the blow, seeing which the policeman drew near and killed it

A Cincinnati special says: The steamer Thomas Sherlock carried two thousand persons ten miles down the river this afternoon to Anderson's ferry, where Captain Paul Boyton illustrated his method of torpedo warfare by blowing up an old hull which had been rigged up as a man-of-war. A seventy-five-pound dynamite cartridge was used. It was attached amidships, just below the water-line. The crowd witnessed the explosion from the low bluff on the Ohio shore. Captain Boyton lighted the fuse and dropped down stream one hundred yards, where he awaited results. The sound of the ex-plosion was dull, but heavy. Timbers rose sixty feet in the air, and one side of the hull was torn out. There was a great splash of water, and many fish were killed and rose to the surface.
